

AviComp Controls GmbH

Sales Engineer

WE ARE

a medium-sized engineering company from Leipzig with further locations in Europe and Asia. Thanks to the experience gained from more than 1,500 completed projects in various industries and due to extensive certifications, the company is one of the leading providers for control and automation technology as well as in the field of digitization.

YOUR TASKS

include active customer care and support as well as targeted expansion of our customer base. You negotiate and track offers, monitor the market development and competitive situation and help gaining new business partners. As first contact for clients you give support regarding technical and commercial queries.

This is what awaits you:

- an international team with strong cohesion and a lot of know-how
- interesting projects
- the opportunity to contribute and develop your ideas
- the chance to grow through collaboration with developers, engineers and intern students

Your skills:

- solution-oriented thinking and the ability to approach tasks in a structured and self-organized manner,
- high ability to work in a team, strong communication skills and a confident demeanor in front of customers and suppliers,
- technical competence in the field of MSR technology

Your benefits:

- hybrid working, trust-based working hours and flexibility in full or part-time
- technical and language training, workshops
- back health, height-adjustable workstation, regular sports activities and job bike
- location close to the city center with very good connections to public transport
- company events

Interested?

Send us an email and we will give you feedback quickly.
Your contact person with us is Uta Kersten.

